WE THE PEOPLE, by Pastor Kevin Dalton

As 2020 draws to a close, I hear many saying, "Thank God." With everything this year contained it's easy to understand the frustration of most. But just what did make 2020 so bad? We had a record year for hurricanes. But we've had hurricanes before, it's just now with all our modern technology we are able to put out precautions to the people so lives can be spared. Except, we the people, having free will, choose to ignore most, if not all those warnings. There was also raging forest fires, covering multiple states, destroying 10's of thousands of acres. But we've had forest fires before, it's just now with all our modern technology we are able to put out many warnings as to what people should do, but again, we the people, have free will and have the right to choose and many chose not to follow. Needless loss of life the result.

To make matters worse we were hit with a pandemic. This pandemic thing, wreaked havoc worldwide and affected everyone, well almost everyone. For a time this country, this world shut down. Jobs were lost, businesses were closed, and schools were closed. People were told to stay home, people were told to stay away from each other, people were told to do a lot of things, yet, we the people, having free will, choose to ignore most, if not all the things we are told to do. Needless loss of life the result.

We're told in the Gospel of John, that God sent His son into the world for us. His son Jesus reached a point where he called people to "Follow Me." That's exactly what Jesus said, it's found in all four of the gospels, Matthew 4, 10; Mark 1, 8; Luke 9, 14; and in John 12. Jesus told us to follow Him. But again, we the people, all have free will and as such many have chosen to ignore anything we are told to do. Needless loss of life the result.

What's scary to me, is that in spite of the fact that, by ignoring warnings we are given, for whatever reason, we ignore them, and a needless loss of life results. What is it about human nature to, almost without fail, we reject any and all things we are told to do, even if it would benefit us, we reject it flat out. We're told don't do this, we do it! We're told don't do that, we do it! We the people, all have free will and as such many have chosen to ignore anything we are told to do.

I'm reminded of something I read from Dallas Willard, professor and philosopher and writer: "When he was a boy, rural electrification was just happening and power lines were being strung throughout the countryside. But suppose even after the lines were up and running, suppose you ran across a house where the weary family still used only candles and kerosene lanterns for light, used scrub boards, ice chests, and rug beaters. A better life was waiting for them right outside their door; they were, not far from it, if only they would let themselves be hooked into the power lines. "My friends," you could proclaim, "electricity is at hand!" But suppose they just didn't trust in what you said and trust it, thought it was too much of a hassle, and anyway they didn't believe the promises you were making that things might be easier with this newfangled juice running into their house. "If it's all the same to you, we'll stick with the old ways."

Maybe God's kingdom is like that: it's here, not far away, it's real, and it's right here for us. The kingdom of God is at hand! The problem is, we the people, refused to be told anything. It's like we're all on the Titanic as it's going down and we're the people refusing to believe what is right in front of us rearranging the deck chairs. I pray God sends 2021 in with a fresh fire of the Holy Spirit upon His people. I pray we can become His people rather than we the people.

Thank You

The family of Bill Stow expresses their appreciation for your love and friendship during our loss. Thank you for all the expressions of sympathy you have shared with us during this time.

Also, we appreciate the flowers, memorial gifts, food delivered and special meal served after the Memorial Service. All your prayers to God our Savior have lifted us up. We ask for continued strength and comfort for days ahead.

Love,
Charlotte Stow & Family

Thank You

Thank you for your thoughtfulness, prayers, food and all you did for us during my mother Jessie Jennings passing and through my resent illness.

You have been a true blessing to me and my family.

Thank you
– Dr. Wanda Starling and family

Thank You

Even though this is delayed, I believe it is not too late . I want to sincerely thank you for everything you did during the passing of my parents. I'm not the best with things like this. The Landrum United Methodist Church people were so kind and gave us support for me and our family during that time. It has been awhile.

I'm sorry for the delay. All of it has just been challenging for me, yet I truly wanted you to know... you have my heartfelt appreciation and gratitude.

May you be blessed,
–Wanda Wofford and family

Photos: If you do not wish to have your photo used in church media, let the photographer and the church office know.

As we begin our personal preparations for Advent, one of my favorite Advent hymns I'd like to share information with you about is Come, thou long-expected Jesus found on page 196 in The United Methodist Hymnal. This hymn is number 10 in Charles Wesley's Hymns for the Nativity of our Lord, 1744. The collection was reprinted twenty times during Wesley's lifetime but it was not included in our hymnal until 1847. There are several themes associated with this hymn. Long-expected freedom, release, rest, consolation, hope, and Christian fulfillment of the expectation in the birth of A Child who brings deliverance from the bondage of sin and establishes God's gracious reign in our hearts.

You are not alone! I am beyond ready for the choir to return! However, until that time, I've tried thinking of different ways to safely incorporate music into our worship services pursuant to our current guidelines. I know you are tired of just hearing piano music! That's okay. I understand!

I have been, and am continuing to try to locate a set of handbells that we can use. If you know of any church that has handbells they are not using at this time (maybe they aren't having in-house worship; don't have an active handbell choir, etc.) please let me or Pastor Kevin know so that one of us can contact them and ask if they would be willing to allow us to use those for a period of time.

Thank you for your help!

I hope that each of you will have a Merry Christmas!

A TIME TO SHARE AND TO GIVE THANKS

Phenix Engineered Textiles (300 Landrum Mill Road) recently held a food drive for our food pantry.

(Pictured l. to r.) with Pastor Kevin are: Andrea Molina, Shipping and Receiving, Jason Hines and Charles Fowler, Maintenance Department. The generous donation will help us with distributing food to our neighbors on an emergency basis and filling Christmas food boxes to be distributed at the community meal.

Phenix Engineered Textiles employs 180 workers from Landrum and surrounding communities, helping to keep our economy going. The company manufactures specialty braided, knitted and woven materials including knitted medical products. At the present time they have gone from five day shifts to working seven days a week making elastic ear band loops for face masks necessary in the fight against Covid-19.

OFFERING ENVELOPES:

The proper completion of your church offering envelope is very important so that year-end contribution statements will be correct. The documentation is taken from what is written on the envelope, so it is vital that the name, date, information and amount is legible.

Please print your first and last name and not just initials. Often there are multiple family members giving and listing just the last name makes it a guess as to who should be credited. If your contact information has changed please note this on the BACK of the envelope to be updated at the office.

Thank you for your support and giving to the Glory of God through your tithes, offerings and contributions.

THE WORD BECAME FLESH

Trudy's Tidings
by Trudy Van Voorhis

It was a cold, blustery, snowy Christmas Eve. A woman leaves the house despite comments from her husband that it is crazy to go to church in such weather. But she was not about to let the snow keep her home. It was Christmas Eve, after all. If ever there was a cause for worship, this was it. Slowly, carefully, alone she drove. She always went alone to church. Her husband used to go, but quit years ago. He gave up on the goodness of God when life dealt him a series of hard blows. "It doesn't matter one way or another," he said. So, he stayed at home, his only company the ticking of the clock, the crackling of the fire, and random thoughts as he sat and looked out the picture window at the snow.

Then he was startled by the sound of something hitting the window. A flock of sparrows was trying to escape the snow and strong winds and find shelter but were prevented by the invisible barrier of glass. He went outside to shoo the birds away, but they only scattered a little and remained by the window. He then felt his spirit shifting from being annoyed to having pity on the poor creatures. He tried to guide them to the other side of the house and protection from the wind, but they were only frightened by his efforts.

Each attempt failed, and he thought to himself how strange it must look for him to be going to all this trouble on such a harsh night for a flock of sparrows. He thought maybe a trail of breadcrumbs to the open door of the barn would work but this scheme failed as well. Every attempt at help, the birds perceived only as a threat. How could he help them to safety? He was then struck by a thought. The only way he could communicate his true concern was if he could become a bird himself. Then they would know he was trying to help them.

At that very moment he heard the distant peal of church bells heralding Christmas Eve, and he realized the message of the very effort he was trying was done by God had been done on a human scale. He caught himself caring, and the Holy Spirit penetrated his defenses with the awareness of the lengths God went to in holding out a hand to humanity.

I found this story in a magazine years ago and kept it, as it parallels my thoughts nicely.

At Christmas, the world was given a Savior...a human being in whom the fullness of God lived. It is important to remember in the Bible that the word of God heard from various stories and pleading prophets was not enough to reveal God's true intent. Shouting, threatening, cajoling, and bribing would not work to turn these children to obedience. It would take something more. So, God made his word what it had never been. The Word became flesh and walked among us.

For too long we were afraid and fled from the one who had our well-being at heart. Then, at a specific time, place, to a specific woman, a baby named Jesus was born for a specific purpose...to reveal the very heart of God. The saying goes "It takes one to know one," and it is true. It takes an up close, personal God to bring us close...A God with a face. The Word became flesh and blood and moved into our neighborhood.

Christmas Eve tells us of God's desire for us to be His children. It is why He came as a child. Jesus was one of us to show how much God loves. There is no telling how He will appear. Advent tells us to pay attention. He is here.... in the candlelight, in someone's caring words or some kind thoughtful act, in the carols.

O Holy night! The stars are brightly shining. It is the night of our dear Savior's birth. Long lay the world in sin and error pining 'til He appeared, and the soul felt its worth.

The short, inspirational Christmas story below reveals the true spirit and meaning of Christmas. It was originally published in the December 14, 1982 issue of Woman's Day magazine. This moving story inspired the creation of The White Envelope Project, a caring nonprofit organization dedicated to developing the next generation of givers, civic leaders, and philanthropists.

May this inspirational story remind us all of the true meaning of Christmas and giving during the holidays and throughout the year.

The Man Who Hated Christmas

By Nancy W. Gavin

It's just a small, white envelope stuck among the branches of our Christmas tree. No name, no identification, no inscription. It has peeked through the branches of our tree for the past ten years.

It all began because my husband Mike hated Christmas. Oh, not the true meaning of Christmas, but the commercial aspects of it – overspending and the frantic running around at the last minute to get a tie for Uncle Harry and the dusting powder for Grandma – the gifts given in desperation because you couldn't think of anything else.

Knowing he felt this way, I decided one year to bypass the usual shirts, sweaters, ties and so forth. I reached for something special just for Mike. The inspiration came in an unusual way.

Our son Kevin, who was 12 that year, was on the wrestling team at the school he attended. Shortly before Christmas, there was a non-league match against a team sponsored by an inner-city church. These youngsters, dressed in sneakers so ragged that shoestrings seemed to be the only thing holding them together, presented a sharp contrast to our boys in their spiffy blue and gold uniforms and sparkling new wrestling shoes.

As the match began, I was alarmed to see that the other team was wrestling without headgear, a kind of light helmet designed to protect a wrestler's ears. It was a luxury the ragtag team obviously could not afford.

Well, we ended up walloping them. We took every weight class. Mike, seated beside me, shook his head sadly, "I wish just one of them could have won," he said. "They have a lot of potential, but losing like this could take the heart right out of them." Mike loved kids – all kids. He so enjoyed coaching little league football, baseball and lacrosse. That's when the idea for his present came.

That afternoon, I went to a local sporting goods store and bought an assortment of wrestling headgear and shoes, and sent them anonymously to the inner-city church. On Christmas Eve, I placed a small, white envelope on the tree, the note inside telling Mike what I had done, and that this was his gift from me.

Mike's smile was the brightest thing about Christmas that year. And that same bright smile lit up succeeding years. For each Christmas, I followed the tradition – one year sending a group of mentally handicapped youngsters to a hockey game, another year a check to a pair of elderly brothers whose home had burned to the ground the week before Christmas, and on and on.

The white envelope became the highlight of our Christmas. It was always the last thing opened on Christmas morning, and our children – ignoring their new toys – would stand with wide-eyed anticipation as their dad lifted the envelope from the tree to reveal its contents. As the children grew, the toys gave way to more practical presents, but the small, white envelope never lost its allure.

The story doesn't end there. You see, we lost Mike last year due to dreaded cancer. When Christmas rolled around, I was still so wrapped in grief that I barely got the tree up. But Christmas Eve found me placing an envelope on the tree. And the next morning, I found it was magically joined by three more. Unbeknownst to the others, each of our three children had for the first time placed a white envelope on the tree for their dad. The tradition has grown and someday will expand even further with our grandchildren standing to take down that special envelope.

Mike's spirit, like the Christmas spirit will always be with us.

Is it time for a new Christmas Tradition? I have a question, what will you leave behind for your family? Always remember the Christ Child born on Christmas day, that grew up and gave His all, His life, to be our Savior, giving us the opportunity for eternal life.
